HILL TOPPERS NOW WANT VICTORY OVER TORNADO

By LOUIS A. DOUGHER.

"Now for Georgia Tech!" is the slogan at the Hilltop. The Blue and Gray, having won handily from Gil Dobie's Middies, 6 to 0, hope to provide Atlanta football fans next Saturday with a perfect host of griefs and glooms by walloping Johnny Heisman's Golden Tornado. That this thing can be done has already been shown by the Washington and Lee victory, 3 to 0. Georgetown hopes to run up a bigger score than that.

The Georgetown varsity squad emerged from that slashing, bruising victory at Annapolis in good condition. A few show marks on their faces. Many others have Egyptian sunsets on their bodies. But each and every one is content, for Georgetown succeeded in winning from the Navy for the first time since 1915.

Jackie Maloney, whose two perfect field goals swung the tide of victory in Georgetown's direction; Capt. Johnny McQuade, whose line-plunging was unequalled, even if unrewarded by a touchdown; Tom Sullivan, whose work at left tackle stamped him a coming star, and chubby, smiling Comstock, the Oklahoma City high school boy, were the individual stars of the Georgetown varsity eleven. Nevertheless, every lad who passed through that acid test at Annapolis is deserving of praise for he did a man's work in a man's way.

All those long, bitter hours spent in rudiments and tough scrimmages last week at the Hilltop have been found well worth while. All the patience shown by Coach Exendine has been rewarded. And the boys chosen to make the fight against the big, powerful Navy eleven did make the fight, a fight never to be forgotten by any Georgetown fan who witnessed it.

Almost at the last moment Exendine decided to send Comstock to right guard, Buckley to halfback and Leighty to fullback. The chunky guards more than made good, though he opposed the best man in the Navy line in Renfeld. Today that Middy knows that he was playing football.

Georgetown won for two reasons. First, the Hilltoppers outguessed and outmaneuvered Dobie's team, and second, they developed an unexpected strength in the line, a strength which permitted them to make an even thing of the contest between the two sets of forwards.

Navy Strong at Rushing.

The Navy showed itself strong at rushing the ball, but in these parlous times a team has to have something else. Straight rushing is nerve-wracking to the team doing it. Unless the offense also possesses some open football, much line-plunging can be wasted. That was shown conclusively at Annapolis.

Receiving the initial kickoff, Navy started a parade up the field, broken for a moment or so by a fumble recovered by Georgetown. The Hilltoppers failed to gain and surrendered the ball when a forward pass on the fourth down struck the ground.

Navy started again on its own 40-yard line and four first downs in a row on short plunges inside and outside of tackle, with now and then a short dash by Clark or Koehler off either wing, shoved the leather down to Georgetown's 2-yard line.

Here the Hilltoppers put up a terrific defense, stopping the Navy backfield handily. On the third down, with five yards to go, Navy shot a forward pass that fell unmolested to the grass. Again this play came over the goal line. It was a touchdown, and Georgetown's ball. That stubborn defense had been worth while.

He Pants Far Away.

On the second down, after Buckley had made three yards, Maloney punted far away, the ball rolling outside at Navy's 30-yard line, and another march of the Middies was under way. Hitting both side of the line, with now and then a straight plunge through the middle, Navy made four first downs and again the ball was beneath the Georgetown goal posts.

Tom Sullivan, Oudack, Comstock, and Anderson had been closing in on the face of the Navy. Trunks, and soon it was third down with eight yards to go. Once more Navy tried a forward pass and once more it hit the ground for a touchback. Back to the 20-yard line went the two teams, and Maloney shortly punted out of danger. For the remainder of the period Navy seemed resting, with Georgetown just playing safe.

During the first quarter Navy had made nine first downs by straight rushing to one for Georgetown. Between the 20-yard lines the Navy attacked seemed invincible, with inside the 20-yard line, the Hilltoppers became far stronger, tossing the Navy backs, with regularity.

The second period, which seemed as strangely short as the first seemed long, saw considerable kicking, in

W. AND J. LOSES ITS CHANCE FOR TITLE

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 9.—W. and J. is out of the fight for football championship honors. Glenn Warner, Panthers did the trick by upsetting the big eleven, 7 to 6, before 30,000 howling fans yesterday. And yet had Stein been willing to punt out, W. and J. might have tied the count, anyway. He preferred to try a touchdown goal from an impossible angle, and Pitt won.

Pittsburgh was leading, 7 to 0, when W. and J.'s chance came in the fourth period. Wickersham, the big guard, broke through and blocked Hastings' punt and fell on the ball as it rolled across the Pittsburgh goal line. Stein refused to punt and lost his first goal, leaving W. and J. one point behind.

Hastings' brilliant work gave Pitt its score. He rushed and forward passed the ball to W. and J.'s 4-yard line. Navy now seemed willing to punt and to forward pass. The ball seethed up and down the field until a forward pass on the fourth down failed, and Georgetown took the leather on Navy's 20-yard line.

One plunge into the line brought two yards, but two attempts at forward passes failed only because the receiver dropped the leather when a touchdown seemed imminent. Maloney dropped back to the 37-yard line and away went the second field goal, high in the air and between the uprights. There wasn't much more anything, save for wild demands by the midshipmen's battalion in the stand to "beat Georgetown." This was too much of a job for the lads on the field. The Hilltoppers had outguessed the Middies, had outthought them and Maloney had defeated them with the aid of ten other rugged athletes.

ZINK'S KICK WINS IT.

AMHERST, Mass., Nov. 9.—Zink's three field goals won for Amherst over Wesleyan here yesterday, 9 to 7. It was the first defeat of the season for Wesleyan. Zink's third field goal gave Amherst its win just before the final whistle.

PENN STATE WINS.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 9.—Penn State defeated Lehigh, 20 to 7, before a huge throng. Penn State outplayed Lehigh for the first three periods, but Lehigh's forward passing scared the home rosters a bit in the final quarter.

NORTH CAROLINA LOSES.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 9.—Trinity Military Institute defeated North Carolina yesterday by a score of 29 to 7. Each was the star of the game for the cadets.

ST. ALBANS WINS.

St. Albans defeated the St. James School by 13 to 0 yesterday on Satterlee Field, winning all the way.

DARTMOUTH IS VICTOR WHEN BELL'S KICK FAILS

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Bert Bell, Penn's little captain-quarterback, narrowly missed getting his statue in the hall of fame yesterday, when, in the dying moments of the game in the Polo Grounds, he just missed a drop-kick which would have spelled victory for the Penn team over Dartmouth. As it was the Hanover men returned to the New Hampshire hills with a 20 to 19 score.

Heine Miller's failure to boost two goals over the bar after touchdown killed Penn's chances. Both teams scored three touchdowns. Dartmouth had failed in two attempts and had Miller counted once his team would have tied. Had he consummated both kicks Penn would have won.

As it was Bert Zell, in the final minute of the game, dropped back from the 35-yard line and attempted a field goal. Calling his teammates back and inspiring them to hold in the line, Bell sailed the ball far and true, only to have it fall just shy of the crossbar.

Penn fought like demons and resorted to every stratagem known to the game. With but little time to go Bell heaved a forward pass to Light, who was dragged to earth on the 16-yard line. On the next play Light was thrown for a ten-yard loss. Then Bell tried and failed.

Victory or defeat rested Penn in the face in the last minute. Robertson, Dartmouth's star had been taken from the game with a broken ankle. His line plunging, running, punting, and passing had been a great factor in Dartmouth's scoring. With Holbrook, Robertson was the big noise for Dartmouth and his departure in the third quarter served to spur the Hanover men to more determined play.

The Green drew ahead of Penn late in the third quarter after a series of short plunges which netted a touchdown. The punt out was muffed up and the goal could not be attempted. Penn had quite the first half with a 12-to-7 score, and the touchdown brought the Green up ahead.

Grabbed Forward Pass.

Jordan got ahead of Penn's secondary on a dash for a touchdown after snatching a Penn forward pass on his 25-yard line. He dashed seventy-five yards for a touchdown. Holbrook kicked touchdown.

Yell's dash and plunge scored Penn's final touchdown late in the game, but the climax came at the end, when Bell's great effort failed.

ARMY HAS VANQUISHED YALE TEAM THREE TIMES

Unofficial reports from New Haven say that Yale plans to arrange a game with West Point for 1920. Yale scored twice. Despite the two touchdowns scored by the Yale men Brown was alive and alert to all plays and with two splendid ends, Williams and Albright, he was effective in stopping the Yale run.

(Gloom was brought to the Yale followers when Kempton was removed with a badly damaged shoulder. He returned to the game late and was a big factor in Yale's play. In the third period Brown held Yale on the 2-yard line for downs.

JACK MALONE REPORTS.

Jack Malone, backfield star at Syracuse in 1916 and 1917, has reported for the 1919 eleven, and is making an excellent impression upon the coaches. He was captain-elect in 1918, leaving to go into the naval service.

OLIPHANT IS COACHING.

Elmer Oliphant, Army's greatest backfield star in recent years, is assisting Coach Daly with the backs at West Point. He will remain until after the Navy game, November 29, at New York.

MACK GOES SOUTH.

Connie Mack has hiked South, hunting for a training camp for 1920. Nobody knows why the Athletics should train anywhere for what they do afterwards.

Dashed Forty Yards.

Eddie Casey took his cue then and proceeded. The Harvard demon dashed forty yards from a forward pass play. Then he circled the field seven yards. Casey then hit the line and wriggled through for five yards.

Then Casey dashed behind the goal line and opened his arms for a forward pass which Felton heaved into his waiting arms. Dancing around behind the goal line and evading seven Princeton players Casey planted the ball squarely behind the goal line. Felton kicked the goal.

Princeton didn't win. But Princeton is celebrating a victory just the same. The halls of old Nassau resound with dire threats for Yale on Saturday. The Tiger has hit his side, they say, and the Tiger will fight as all who eat in Palmer Stadium yesterday will testify.

Has Little To Explain.

Harvard has little to explain today. The Crimson warriors know they were outguessed and outplayed. Max for man with the exception of Casey, Harvard got the short end of the playing deal. The vaunted power of the Crimson line was matched by that of Princeton's line.

Always willing, ever eager, and generally getting the jump on the Harvard eleven, the Princeton team knew no bounds. It was fight from whistle to whistle that put the Tiger on even terms as far as the score went, but which gave the edge to the lads of Nassau.

Catholic University players, in defeating the Bowling Field Aviators by 37 to 0, won their first game of the season at Brookland yesterday. The Brooklanders were much better all the way than the same team had stopped the rushes of the Anacostia men at will.

Six touchdowns were counted by the Brooklanders, who gained on intercepted passes from the Anacostia, Glascock, Dunn, Fitzgerald, Pomas, and Fennell scored for C. U.

LEW TENDLER HANDS IT TO ERNE IN HOT SCRAP

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Lew Tandler, of this city, demonstrated before a packed house that George (Young) Erne was no match for him in their bout last night.

Erne's seconds tossed up the sponge during the second round after Tandler, with body blows and a terrific right smash, had administered sufficient punishment.

RUTGERS WINS, 13 TO 7.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Boston College lost to Rutgers here yesterday, 13 to 7, because of its fumbles, its failure with the forward pass, and its weakness in the line. Rutgers' line proved too much for the home team when scoring seemed possible.

FRITZ SHIVERICK STARS.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Fritz Shiverick starred for Cornell in the victory over Carnegie Tech, 20 to 0. He scored two touchdowns and two field goals, besides two goals from touchdowns.

HARLEY IN FORM.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 9.—Chick Harley was the whole works in Ohio State's 26-0 win over Purdue here yesterday. Harley was held out during the first quarter, but when he went in shock up the players and stands.

CHICAGO WINS GAME.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Twenty-five thousand saw Chicago win by 13 to 0 over Michigan yesterday in the first meeting between the eleven since 1905 when Chicago won by 2 to 0.

TUFTS TRIM DETROIT.

DETROIT, Nov. 9.—Tufts, by scoring a touchdown in the final period, gave Detroit University its first defeat of the season, 7 to 3.

FRESHMEN DEFEATED.

Central's Freshman eleven was defeated by 31 to 0 at Briarly Hall yesterday.

HARVARD TEAM LEARNS OF PRINCETON'S FIGHT

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9.—Harvard has learned a few things about Princeton's fighting qualities. Thirty-five thousand chilly spectators in Palmer Stadium yesterday saw a thoroughly aroused Tiger hop from his lair. Whipped and ingloriously belabored by West Virginia and Colgate early in the season, Princeton's team arose and, in its supreme struggle, got a 10 to 10 score when all but counted out of the running before the game.

Princeton is content today. Despite the drawn battle the Tiger is counting the game a win. To have been forced to a tie through the almost superhuman efforts of Eddie Casey, the 152-pound Harvard halfback, means little for Princeton. That brilliant effort of Casey's but saved a few of the Boston beans and gave the Crimson nothing but a stop-gap to what otherwise is considered a sound trouncing.

Princeton opened with a determined attack which would not be denied. To the astonishment of the onlookers, the Tiger team literally tore the Harvard machine loose from its stanchions and swept it down field amid bedlam.

Gharitty and Trimble ran the ends for gains at will. Through changed his tactics and adopted the aerial method with the result that Trimble ran around the Harvard left end for fifteen yards and a touchdown. The first made against the Crimson this season.

Casey Seemed Able.

Casey alone seemed to evade the Tiger tacklers. Harvard lost a grand chance to score in the opening period and when Ralph Horween was sent in presumably to kick he fumbled and three Tiger players were on the ball. Again in the third period a recovered fumble and a twenty-seven-yard dash by Casey brought the ball to the twenty-seven-yard line. Princeton held and Horween booted one squarely between the posts.

In the final period Princeton fans settled back in undisguised glee when McGraw broke through, blocked Church's punt on the 1-yard line and fell on it. Frank Murray, sent from the side lines, kicked a field goal.

Dashed Forty Yards.

Eddie Casey took his cue then and proceeded. The Harvard demon dashed forty yards from a forward pass play. Then he circled the field seven yards. Casey then hit the line and wriggled through for five yards.

GALLAUDET START SLOW TO OPEN UP

Gallaudet College was slow to get started against the Western Maryland College eleven at Kendall Green yesterday. The Buff and Blue players carefully took the measure of the visitors during the first half, and then staged a whirlwind attack which brought a 27 to 0 win.

It was not until Downes entered the game that Gallaudet really got going. Ward, of the visitors, blocked La Fontaine's kick in the second period and fell on the ball for the only score the visitors made.

Wilson, of the Buff and Blue, off consistent gains on a weakening opponent, and in the third quarter two touchdowns were registered. Seipp's broken field work with the line, and the rushing of Wilson and the field running of Wilson put the Gallaudet lads in scoring position frequently from where the necessary yardage was made for the count.

Gallaudet had the punch in the third and fourth periods, which would not be denied despite the frequent penalties for holding.
